Description:

Donskoy quarter is a residential complex of business-class apartments in the Donskoy district of Moscow. The complex includes two eleven-storey monolithic-brick buildings, which are interconnected by an underground parking for forty cars with a license plate recognition function; the courtyards of the complex will be freed from cars. The architecture of the facades is conceived as a continuation of the historical surroundings of the complex. The territory of the complex will be equipped with a multi-level security system, 24-hour video surveillance and a concierge service.
